

FY23 ANNUAL REPORT

Runway for Recovery's team is thrilled to share the following annual report which highlights some of our programs and activities delivered over the last fiscal year – July 1, 2023-June 30, 2023.

We are incredibly proud of the impact that we have been able to have on families affected by breast cancer, and we can only do this critical work thanks to the generosity of our champions and donors—your belief in our mission has allowed us to continue to deepen and enhance our programs to be tailored to the various needs of the amazing community of people we serve. This year, we raised over $1 Million for the first time ever, and we'd like to take this opportunity to thank every individual person who contributed to this.

Runway for Recovery provides families with a continuum of support along their journey with breast cancer. We seek to improve the lives of those who are currently affected by breast cancer by supporting their varied needs at critical times during their journey. This has profound impacts on the long-term overall health of the entire family. This work includes support services for survivors (Model Support Services), and grants to aid with the disease' lasting financial impacts for bereaved families (Family Grants Program).

The objective of the organization, from our beginnings, has always been to focus on people reaching their full potential—emotionally, mentally, physically, and financially. Our resources for survivors and families with young children experiencing grief are a critical lifeline. For example, we feel strongly about focusing on the whole health of the family, and deploy social worker support as a critical element to a family's emotional health, and is also a large reason why the organization is different than most.

This past year, we have continued to grow and refine our programs to have the greatest possible impact on the families we serve, and none of this would have been possible without our supporters. From the bottom of my heart, thank you.

Olivia Achtmeyer Boger
Founder and Executive Director

OUR WORK AND IMPACT

Family Grants Program

"I am so thankful for Runway at such a stressful and tough time in my life. I felt that I was being carried on your shoulders and you helped push me forward, when I couldn't do it on my own."

Grantee, 2023

Breast cancer crosses all demographic lines. Our Family Grants Program has a significant impact on the families we serve--who's challenge is often two-fold: They are experiencing the real and lasting financial side effects of a loved one going through breast cancer treatment and currently fall into a systemic gap in services after the patient passed away. After our decision to allow Stage IV guardians to be included in our funding program, we saw an 81% increase in applications.

During the 2022-23 fiscal year, Runway issued funding letters to 36 families in both New England and Southern California, all with varied and unique needs. We are funding things like childcare, therapy, tutoring, extracurricular activities, clothing and self-care needs, and groceries, among many other items.

- To date, we have a waiting list of 18 new families waiting for a grant decision; as mentioned above, the significant increase came after opening the application to Stage IV warriors—an overwhelming majority (87%) of the applications we have received this year are from Stage IV mothers.
- In FY22, Runway's program costs were $292,000, and this year (FY23), we spent over $544,700 on our programs.

In FY24, which began on July 1, 2023, we will maintain our growth, and distribute grants to 35 families in New England and 7 in Southern California, with the goal of alleviating some of the stress put on the entire family by this disease, thus positively impacting children bereaved by breast cancer, or facing future loss.

Launching Programs in Southern California

This year we expanded our work to Southern California, thanks to the leadership of local couple Ricky Hsin and Melissa Rudolph. Ricky and Melissa turned their pain into action after Ricky's thirty-five-year-old sister, Rachael, passed away from metastatic breast cancer in 2017. Ricky had spent years following Runway's work, and after the loss of his sister, he took as many opportunities as he could to reach out and talk to Runway Founder, Olivia, about how he could help the cause. His belief in our work intensified in 2020 and 2021 when a larger audience of his network was able to view our annual Runway Fashion Show, when we went virtual, due to the pandemic. Feeling inspired and energized, with the help of his network of close friends and family, Ricky and Melissa brought The Runway Show to Southern California in January.

We are happy to share that the event brought in an incredible $189,000, and now, an entirely new community of people affected by breast cancer have access to the support that Runway provides. Currently, we are working with Providence, St. Joseph's Hospital in Orange to identify families that need our support. This hospital serves a large immigrant population and the applications we have received to date reflects this. We are also pleased to share that we've hired a local, part-time licensed social worker who also teaches at California State University, Fullerton Campus to work with applicants and grantees. Ms. Fernandez is the fourth member of our National CareTeam – three social workers and one RN who on-board and offer continual support to our families enrolled in our grant program.

This event was so successful, that it will run for a second year in 2024, and hopefully well into the future, and Runway is now working to develop our new strategic plan with our Board of Directors, which includes continued growth to new markets beyond New England and Southern California. We have identified three other locations around the country for the next phase of our organizational growth, and we are thrilled to announce those locations and plans for future Runway Show events and Family Grant programs in January, 2024.

Model Wellness Program

Runway launched a Model Wellness Program, centered upon bringing yoga, meditation and mentorship opportunities to women who are battling or have battled breast cancer. Our support services are grounded in a strong evidence-base that healing the 'whole person' is critical to recovery. When designing our program, the late Dr. Jack Erban, Clinical Director, Tufts Cancer Center and Professor at Tufts University School of Medicine, suggested that we headline our model support services with a Wellness Workshop. He noticed that his patients were often under a lot of stress after they completed their treatments. When designing this program, after speaking with five therapists in Boston who treat anxiety, depression, and bereavement, it became clear that we could validate people's concerns while also giving them the tools they need to live their lives each day and 'recover' from the cancer or the loss. It also has always been true that hearing other's stories plays a huge role in helping to heal.

This year, we held our second annual Wellness Retreat, which quickly sold out, for 35 models at Alnoba in Kensington, New Hampshire. These incredible women found a deep sense of community in their peers and had the chance to step back from their day-to-day reality to experience an uninterrupted moment of self-care with yoga, meditation, hiking, spa treatments, rest, and connection. At the retreat, we also started an informal metastatic breast cancer (MBC) "support group" which is co-led by a funded family and alumni model. We look forward to continuing to offer this experience to even more deserving individuals.

One of our models recently reflected on her involvement with Runway for Recovery: "When I think about Runway, I am truly so honored and humbled to be a part of a community that lifts each other up in what is often their darkest hours. That supports one another both in public on the runway and in private through acts of kindness and generosity. That celebrates and empowers not only current members of the community but all they come in contact with that are touched by breast cancer. I am so proud to share my Runway experiences with my children and teach them how special this tribe is. I talk to them about my strong mother's fight and about how important it is for us to help lessen the burden of families still fighting and those left behind."

Playing for Pink

This year, we refreshed an athletic program we launched on a smaller scale 16 years ago: a high school and middle school program, called Playing for Pink. This program is unique in that it allows Runway to go to schools and athletic clubs and talk about our work, the impact of breast cancer on small communities, and the shared experience we can all have when we raise money and awareness for those impacted by this disease. What started the program at two schools in 2007 has grown to 35 different schools and clubs across New England and New York. Our student leaders work with their schools to educate their local communities about Runway — in many cases Runway’s Executive Director was invited to speak at in-school meetings. Collectively, the program has reached 2,415 students to date, and raised just over $47K for our Family Grants program.

Looking forward, we are focused on the growth of the Playing for Pink program by reaching more local high schools and empowering our four summer student interns in 2023 to mentor and coach peers so that the program can continue to grow this coming school year. Moreover, it is a natural secondary program to introduce to a new area of the country that Runway grows into — in a second year of growth, once a set of models have taken to the Runway stage and families have been funded, we can offer the support to help a new area introduce a Playing for Pink program in their own school communities. And by having our summer interns all be students/athletes who have either experienced the loss of a guardian, lived with a guardian through treatment, or currently are the child of someone who is Stage IV, we are giving these interns a way to educate other teens about the impacts of the disease on families.

Raising Awareness and Expanding our Reach

This year Runway worked to grow our brand awareness so that we are continuing to reach a wider audience with our programs and services. At our last New England Runway Show, our in-kind partnerships grew 10x with over 25 brands and companies running breast cancer awareness fundraisers on behalf of Runway — brands like Night Shift Brewery, Lilbridge, STIK, Everybody Fights, and J. McLaughlin among others.

As we look ahead, we have a very exciting new addition to our plans; we have our very first media sponsor. WBZ/CBS has agreed to cover not only our Runway Show event in October, but also share throughout the month of October, the stories of the families that we fund. With the increase in applications from Stage IV guardians, they are very interested in highlighting the bravery and the heartache that comes with the diagnosis and then the impact financially that cancer has on the family and how Runway alleviates some of that strain. WBZ also has two anchors who have gone through breast cancer treatment as well, and they will dance in our show in October to bring attention to our event and the power that the evening has for those who experience it.

We are so grateful for the new exposure and know that it’s part of taking Runway’s mission to the next level in our organizational trajectory.
